Ukhi India Private Limited addresses environmental challenges caused by plastic pollution by developing biodegradable biopolymer granules from natural fibers like hemp, nettle, and flax. Their innovative solution offers a stronger, lighter, and more affordable alternative to traditional plastics, promoting eco-friendly practices. They focus on sustainable agriculture, bioplastics innovation, and environmental well-being. Their USP includes personalized solutions, real-time monitoring, and rapid scientific advice, ensuring farmers and industries can adopt sustainable practices effectively. By combining technology and natural resources, Ukhi aims to create a greener, more sustainable future.
